Reminder

By Kathy Gerding

When residents sign the initial lease with RTSC, there is a form you also sign stating that you are accepting your apartment "As Is." Please understand if you want to make changes to your apartment at your own expense, you must get PRIOR approval from the office first. This includes providing paint chips, flooring samples, etc.

Lost and Found

While living in an apartment complex, you are living with a community... lots of people with lots of belongings. When out and about in the community, if you find something someone lost but don't know who to return it to, turn the item(s) in to the Rental Office. That's one of the first places you should look for lost items.

A Glucose Monitoring device was recently turned in. We've had someone's set of Kia keys, many other keys, a LG phone and eye glasses for quite some time.

Laundry Room Etiquette

Laundry rooms can get messy. If you have spills, make sure to clean up after yourself. Make note of how long the washers and dryers take to clean/dry your clothing. If you do not stay with your clothes, know when you should go back so that you do not tie up the machines unnecessarily. If you fold clothing there, do it quickly and clear the laundry room table once completed. Do not leave cloths on the table longer than necessary. Clean out the lint after you're finished with the dryers. Space is very limited so please be considerate of your neighbors.

These birds landed on the handrail of our pier. The one on the right is a roseate spoonbill. The bird on the left is a snowy egret.

Election Day Trivia

Question: What determines the day the General Election is held?

If you answered "The first Tuesday of November" you would be wrong.

The correct answer is: The Tuesday after the first Monday. This rule played out in grand style in 2016 when the election was held on November 8.

The reason that Election Day was specified as the "Tuesday after the first Monday" was to prevent it from falling on November 1. That day was considered unfavorable because some Christians observed it as All Saints' Day and also because merchants typically took the first day of the month to settle their books for the previous month.

General Election Day, Tues., Nov. 3
